NCTE PROGRAM TO RECOGNIZE Excellence in Student Literary Magazines

The National Council of Teachers of English has established a Program to Recognize Excellence in Student Literary Magazines. The program is intended as a means of recognition for students, teachers, and schools producing excellent literary magazines; as an inducement for improving the quality of such magazines; and as encouragement for all schools to develop literary magazines, seeking excellence in writing and schoolwide participation in production. Magazines are evaluated and ranked. Critiques of individual magazines are not provided.

NCTE Headquarters will administer the program and work with coordinators in each state. Each State Coordinator will assemble a judging team of a minimum of two judges (in the ratio of two judges per eight magazines submitted). Each entry will be reviewed and scored by two judges working independently. The judges will be English teachers at the middle school, secondary, or college level. Judges will not be permitted to rate magazines from their own schools.

Eligibility

The student literary magazine program is open to all senior high, junior high, and middle schools throughout the United States, Canada, Virgin Islands, and to American schools abroad. Only one entry may be submitted per school. In cases where a school publishes more than one magazine or more than one issue per year, a selection committee should be formed at the school to select the best entry. Two or more schools may not join to submit one entry. Districtwide magazines produced by student staff are eligible if such magazines are developed in a district that does not have individual school literary magazines. Note: The following types of magazines are not eligible: K–elementary magazines and other kinds of publications, e.g., newspapers, yearbooks. Evidence of plagiarism will disqualify a magazine.

Aspects Evaluated

While literary excellence dominates, production values are important, and the extent of student participation in production is considered. Magazines will be evaluated according to the following criteria (maximum 100 points):

Literary (80 points total)
- Content/Quality—50 points
  - Imaginative use of language
  - Appropriateness of metaphor, imagery, symbol
  - Choice of vivid, clear, precise words
  - Variety, rhythm, flow of language
- Content Variety—15 points
  - Poetry, fiction, drama
  - Essays, reviews, translations, lyrics, writing from across the curriculum, and multi-media presentations
- Editing, Proofreading—15 points

Design and Graphics (20 points total)
- Artistic Quality—15 points
  - Layout and typography
  - Illustrations and photography
  - Use of illustrations and photography to reflect themes
- Front Matter and Pagination—5 points
  - Title page (title, school, city, district, state, date)
  - Table of contents
  - Staff credits

Judging and Awards

The initial judging will be based on a point system. The total points awarded the individual entries will determine the entry's placement in one of the categories explained below.

Faculty advisors and principals will receive notice of ranked magazines by mail in January. Judging results are posted on the NCTE website at http://www.ncte.org/about/awards/student/preslm.

Superior (100–91 points)
Outstanding writing; wide variety of genres (at least 5) represented; meticulous editing; unifying design; high-quality graphics; coherency of theme and design; clear evidence of interdepartmental and interdisciplinary involvement with writings from other subject areas; students dominate editorial, production, and business aspects.

Excellent (90–81 points)
High quality of writing; variety of genres (at least 4) represented; strong editing; some writings from other subject areas; design and graphics attractive, pertinent to writings; students have strong roles in editorial, production, and business aspects.

Above Average (80–71 points)
Sound writing; includes at least three genres, and one or two pieces from other subject areas; good editing, but noticeable errors; design and layout adequate but inconsistent; students' participation in editorial, production, and business aspects weak.

Unranked (70 or fewer points)
Lack of sufficient quality in areas noted above and on the scoring sheet to warrant inclusion in the program in a given year.

HIGHEST AWARD
This special award recognizes magazines that fulfill extraordinary standards of excellence. In such magazines, students handle virtually all aspects of writing, production, and business with exceptional skill.

To Enter a Magazine

Magazines submitted must have been published between September of the previous year and July of the entry year. To enter a magazine, follow these steps:

1. Complete the entry form—type or print the information.
