

Appendix 16.2. Be a Sports Reporter

ESPN 9 is planning on running a special series on sports and athletes who participate in activities that are not typically sponsored by schools (e.g., skateboarding, snowboarding, rock climbing).

As a sports reporter for ESPN, your task is to research an activity that is not typically sanctioned by schools, interview someone who participates in that activity, and write up their story.

Components to this project:

- Selection of a topic and research focus or question
- Research on the topic, including reading several sources related to the activity and keeping a record of information learned as a result of this research
- Development of a set of interview questions based on research and research question/focus
- Completed interview
- Written narrative of the participant's story
- Recorded segment to distribute to others
